Editorial National Education Day

November 11th is observed as National Education Day in India, com-memorating the birth anniversary of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, India's first Education Minister. This day emphasizes the importance of education in shaping the nation's future and recognizes the significant contributions made by Maulana Azad in the field of education.

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad was a visionary leader who understood the transformative power of education. He believed that education was the key to unlocking India's potential and ensuring its progress and development. As the first Education Minister of India, he played a pivotal role in shaping the country's education policy and laying the foundation for its growth.

Education is the backbone of a nation's development, empowering individuals, fostering critical thinking and innovation, promoting social mobility, enhancing economic growth, and developing responsible citizenship. It enables individuals to acquire knowledge, skills, and values necessary to participate fully in society and contribute to its growth.

In India, despite progress made in expanding educational opportunities, challenges persist. Many children continue to lack access to quality education, and disparities in educational outcomes remain significant. To address these challenges, the government has launched several initiatives aimed at improving access, quality, and equity in education.

The Right to Education (RTE) Act, Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA), and Rashtriya Madhyamik Shiksha Abhiyan (RMSA) are some of the key initiatives undertaken by the government to universalize elementary education and improve educational outcomes. The National Education Policy (NEP) aims to promote India's rich cultural heritage and provide a roadmap for transforming India's education system.

Stakeholders, including the government, teachers, parents, students, and the community, have a critical role to play in ensuring that education is accessible, equitable, and of high quality. Teachers are essential to providing quality education and mentorship, while parents and the community must support and encourage students to learn.

Best practices in education, such as digital education platforms, flipped classrooms, experiential learning, skill-based training, and community involvement, can enhance educational outcomes and prepare students for the challenges of the 21st century.

As we celebrate National Education Day, we recognize the power of knowledge to transform individuals, communities, and nations. We must reaffirm our commitment to education as a fundamental right and work towards creating an inclusive, equitable, and quality education system that empowers all individuals to reach their full potential.

National Education Day serves as a reminder of the importance of education in shaping India's future. By recognizing the significance of education and the contributions of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, we can work towards creating a brighter future for all Indians.

The life and legacy of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad continue to inspire us to strive for excellence in education. His vision for India's education system remains relevant today, and his contributions will always be remembered as a testament to the transformative power of education.

In conclusion, National Education Day is a celebration of the power of knowledge and the importance of education in shaping India's future. Let us reaffirm our commitment to education and work towards creating a better future for all.

a host of VVIPs, including ministers men" or "a man of the highest virtue."

In his quest for spiritual fulfilment. Aang Lotha Khunbao renounced worldly and material pursuits, leaving Namsang village to become a devoted disciple of Shri Ram Aata after abdicating his throne and handing over responsibilities to his son.

This exemplifies the fact that the Noctes possessed spiritual richness even centuries ago, being the first tribe from what is now Arunachal Pradesh (formerly NEFA) to embrace Hinduism, specifically Vaisnavism. Even today, the Assam Buranji and some Sattras in Assam recognize the Noctes as Vaisnavites.

According to legend, Lotha Khunbao, the Aang of undivided Namsang-Borduria, first saw his guru Shri Ram Aata in a dream and later travelled to the Merbil Chaliha BaregharSattra in Sasoni to meet him. Through his knowledge, discipline, and spiritual devotion, Khunbao became Shri Ram Aata's most favoured and trusted disciple. Impressed by Khunbao's spiritual conduct, Shri Ram Aata gave him the name Narottam, meaning "man of the highest virtue."

Narottam contributed significantly not only to the growth of the Sattra at Sasoni but also to spreading the teachings of Vaisnavism in the Nocte villages of undivided Tirap district. Namphars were established in these villages, especially in the lower belt, where Satradhikars regularly visited to conduct spiritual activities, including Bhavnas.

The Aangs of Borduria and Namsang adopted Vaisnavism as their faith and generously supported the Satradhikars in maintaining the Namghars. Interestingly, both Shri Ram Aata and Narottam passed away on the same day, with legends claiming that their funeral pyres met in the skies. It is therefore fitting to say that Narottam was the first Nocte saint who preached Vaisnavism and planted the seeds of the faith in the Nocte regions.

The two-day event was also attended by the Chiefs/Aangs of Borduria and Namsang from Tirap District, Arunachal Pradesh.

The program highlighted the enduring cordial relationship between Assam and the Nocte tribe of Arunachal Pradesh, and is expected to further strengthen this age-old cultural bond.
